Paolo Manzone (Serralunga d'Alba) - A medium-sized estate that real Barolo fans appreciate, both for the consistency as well as the price/quality relationship. The Serralunga comune Barolo is a great value (the 2020 is particularly well done), while the Meriame, from 70 years old vines at the estate, is one of the zone's most underrated Barolos (especially the 2016 and 2019 releases). The riserva Barolo, partly matured in amphorae, is nothing short of brilliant (especially the 2008, 2012, 2016 and 2018).
